

Veronique Loewen

Veronique Loewen is the Manager, Communications with Orano Canada (formerly AREVA Resources Canada), with 20+ years in the mining industry in the areas of administration, public relations and communications.

Veronique is recognized as an exceptional woman in mining and in nuclear, because:

- as a passionate communicator and supporter, she rarely misses an opportunity to advocate for the industry. Veronique is dedicated to enhancing the public perception of mining, and in particular the nuclear industry.
- Veronique is a true champion of encourage women to not only gain education, experience and employment in the industry but to assert themselves, lean in and make themselves and the industry better for it.

Here are just a few key contributions Veronique has made:

- As a founding member and advisor, Veronique is integral in to WIM/WiN Saskatchewan.
- Recent recipient of the Women of Distinction Award – in the category of leadership and professions.
- Extensive work with non-profit organizations across various fields
- Recipient of the 2017 WIN award

Veronique is respected as a colleague, a mentor and a friend, her door is always open for a shoulder or an ear, to provide advice and encouragement (personally and professionally). She is a true leader, a true champion for women in the workforce and a true spokesperson for the mining and nuclear industry. Over the years she has encouraged many to own their personal vision, while being true to themselves and their values.